

Mykola Latansky

Philosopher of Human Genius

Bestselling Author · International Speaker

Mykola Latansky is a philosopher of human genius, the founder of Genialism™, and an independent researcher of human authorship and agency in the age of AI. His work explores how people recognise what matters, choose a direction and take responsibility for the lives they help create. Genialism connects human potential with self-knowledge, responsible authorship and meaningful contribution.

His research centres on Original Human Agency: how people participate in forming, examining and revising their goals, reasons and decisions when AI helps them think and act. He distinguishes final approval from substantive involvement in shaping a decision. Augmented agency describes assistance that expands human capacities while sustaining authorship; derivative agency describes increasing reliance on purposes and judgements adopted without sufficient examination.

Latansky brings more than twenty years of international speaking and teaching in human development. He has addressed live audiences in more than 40 countries. His online and in-person learning programmes have involved tens of thousands of participants from more than 80 countries. He translates complex ideas into accessible educational formats, connecting philosophical inquiry with practical questions of purpose, responsibility and action for individuals and organisations.

He holds a master's degree with honours in Mechanical Engineering from the National Technical University of Ukraine "Kyiv Polytechnic Institute". He completed the Certificate of Higher Education programme in Philosophy at the University of Oxford. His further study includes philosophy of AI at Venice International University and digital humanism at TU Wien. This intellectual foundation brings engineering into dialogue with philosophy of action, phenomenology and philosophical anthropology.

Human Genius in the Age of AI · Original Human Agency · Inquire Within

Based in Budapest, Hungary

Available for speaking engagements worldwide

Speaking language: English

latansky.com

mykola@latansky.com